

In 1775, George Washington became Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army, leading the American forces to victory over the British. After the war, he was elected the nation's first president, earning the title "Father of the Nation" for his leadership.

Cause 1: became Commander-in-Chief

Cause 2: victory over the British

Effect: Washington became a major leader during the Revolutionary War.

George Washington

Effect: Washington became a major leader during the Revolutionary War.